

Core Values of Mangone Law Firm LLC

The following are the values of Mangone Law Firm LLC.

Employees are expected to follow these values in all work-related activities, from talking to a colleague to the way they handle their tasks.

- Above the Line

- We take full responsibility for our results.
- There are no excuses, only solutions.
- If you see something, say something.

Being "Above the Line" represents our philosophy of absolute responsibility, where every team member operates from ownership and accountability instead of falling into blame or excuses. Under the fundamental premise of "If you see something, say something," we assume that the way we do one thing is the way we do everything else; therefore, excellence must be reflected in both minimal tasks and major projects. By eliminating finger-pointing and understanding that we own every result and its solution, we guarantee the attention to detail necessary to protect our clients' futures and fulfill our mission of changing one million lives.

- Honesty

- We always tell the truth, even when it's difficult.
- Transparency guides our actions.
- Trust is built through honesty.

For Mangone Law Firm, honesty is a core value. We do not lie to our clients, we are proud of the work we do, we believe in the service we provide, and we are always honest with the possibilities. We also give the client the best and most accurate information to our knowledge and give our 100% to help them when possible. At no point will we set unreal expectations or engage in any form of lying. The same applies to the way we treat our co-workers. By being honest, we can ensure that together we do meaningful work to really help people.

- Execution

- We turn ideas into actions.
- We deliver on what we promise.
- Excellence lies in making things happen.

We value the ability to turn ideas into concrete actions. For us, execution means carrying out commitments, delivering on promises, and completing tasks with quality and responsibility. Execution requires discipline, organization, and focus, ensuring that what is planned does not remain as words but translates into real results.

We believe that a team that executes with excellence is a team that moves forward. Good intentions or strategies are not enough: what truly makes the difference is our ability to make things happen effectively and on time. In every project, case, or task, we strive to act with determination and precision to meet our goals and honor the trust clients place in us.

- Clarity

- Clarity prevents mistakes.
- Communicating well is part of success.
- We know what is possible and what is not.

In the field that we work in, it is vital to have a correct and precise view of the bigger picture. All members of the team have to be clear regarding what is possible and what is not. Our job is to guide people through their migratory process. To do so properly, it is our duty to gather the correct information and explain things in the best way possible, to both the client and the immigration authority, to prevent any form of miscommunication.

- Result-Oriented

- What matters are the results.
- Quality and timeliness matter more than quantity.
- Reaching goals is our purpose.

The fundamental value of this company is that we work in a result-driven environment. At the end of the day, results are the only thing that matters in immigration. Whether we get approval or a package out in time is key, and it is what makes all previous efforts have value. Without a focus on results, we will never be able to reach our goal of helping one million people in their immigration matters. For this reason, our primary focus is not productivity in terms of plain and simple quantity, but rather what an employee is able to finish and how (timely, quality, etc ...). It is not encouraged for an employee to have many things in the air, let's say working on multiple packages or declarations at once, at the cost of finishing one in time and with good quality. While the former might make you feel productive, it is the latter that counts, as it will lead us to achieve results.

- Deadline-Oriented

- Meeting deadlines is a form of responsibility.
- Planning prevents chaos.
- Punctuality reflects excellence.

At Mangone Law Firm, the work culture is defined by a sense of urgency and a strict orientation toward deadlines (deadline-oriented), as failure to meet them is considered a form of negligence that jeopardizes the immigration status of our clients. To achieve excellence and exercise passionate advocacy, "Manguitos" must interpret every deadline as a non-negotiable objective, utilizing advance planning to mitigate obstacles such as lack of client cooperation or document delays. Prioritizing deadline compliance allows for efficient workflow organization and prevents the accumulation of tasks; in the event of any circumstance that prevents fulfillment of what was agreed upon, it is mandatory to communicate immediately with the team and the coordinator to find joint solutions, understanding that deadlines are only modified under exceptional circumstances and that no amount of effort compensates for a lack of planning.

- Premium Customer Service

- Hospitality and empathy are our foundation.
- The client should always feel supported.
- Paying attention to details builds trust.

Manguitos are expected to provide the best customer service through two main areas, which are hospitality and empathy. Hospitality refers to something more than following the procedure, it means doing things with care, attention, and following up on the client. Ultimately, a client should feel that we are on their side. At no point should our customers feel that we are not defending their best interests. On the other hand, empathy is needed to provide the client with what they need. Through empathy, we will be able to understand why our client is experiencing the frustration associated with their immigration process, and in what ways we can help them get through it. When dealing with clients directly, thinking about how to deliver to our client our best premium customer service will help us understand the client better, obtain their best cooperation with us, and prevent mistakes such as confusing them or leaving them with unanswered questions.

- Zealous Advocacy

- We always give our maximum effort.
- We seek creative and ethical solutions.
- We anticipate problems before they arise.

"Zealous advocacy" is defined as the lawyer's duty to do everything reasonable, within the bounds of the law, to help a client achieve the goals set forth in their case. In Mangone Law Firm, this duty extends beyond the lawyer, as all employees are expected to have this mindset. To put it into practice, employees are expected to be creative, critical, and find solutions to upcoming problems. Using these skills, employees are expected, within their tasks and responsibilities, to do everything possible to help a case. It means that you should push for the extra mile, to try to leave the best version of your work in each case. The main reason why this value is important is that working in the field of immigration law is difficult. Ninety-nine percent of the time, our clients feel that the immigration authorities are working against them. The ideal scenario is that employees will be proactive, acting before a situation becomes a source of confrontation or crisis, to solve and prevent problems. Members of the team should think ahead and detect any possible issues and determine in which ways they can be addressed, to best assist the client. However, being reactive is important too, as there is often a push-and-pull battle in immigration. When faced with a problem that already exists, you should react to it with the intent to do everything reasonably within the bounds of the law to help the client

- Continuous Improvement

- There is always a better version of our work.
- Mistakes are opportunities to learn.
- Learning and adapting is a professional duty.

Given that helping our clients is a constant battle against immigration authorities and their changing policies, at Mangone Law Firm, we have an individual commitment to continuous improvement to always present the best version of our work. It is not acceptable to remain stagnant in methods of the past; we must be able to adapt our way of thinking and learn from every daily result to achieve excellence. This process requires a total openness to constructive feedback and the ability to process mistakes as fundamental learning experiences. We understand that growth stems from self-reflection and the willingness to transform weaknesses into strengths, under the premise that anyone incapable of accepting and learning from a mistake does not fit into our culture. . There is one general rule of thumb, which is $\text{Pain} + \text{Reflection} = \text{Progress}$.
